

Alexandra is a pupil barrister at 5 St Andrew's Hill. She grew up and lives in Essex and blogs about her experiences at essextoxford.wordpress.com. She is also active on both Twitter and Instagram as 'essexbarrister'.

Alexandra was awarded the first Queen's scholarship by Middle Temple; a scholarship awarded to a student showing exceptional promise for a career at the Bar.

In 2018, Alexandra achieved a distinction in her LLM, which included her Bar Professional Training Course. She completed her thesis on understanding the law of parasitic accessory liability.

In 2017, Alexandra completed her Graduate Diploma in Law. She wrote her thesis on legal rights of unborn children. Whilst studying, she worked as an intervention teacher in a primary school in Essex. She taught Maths and English to students in receipt of pupil-premium funding.

In 2016, Alexandra graduated in Philosophy, Politics and Economics from the University of Oxford. She wrote her thesis on the effect of unlawful police killings on young black people in the United States. Alexandra was awarded the University College Master's Scholarship and the Rothermere American Institute travel scholarship for her research, which was published.

Alexandra attended state schools in Essex and is passionate about making the Bar more diverse and encouraging people from non-traditional backgrounds. She is an elected member of the Middle Temple Hall Committee and is the Education and Training representative on this committee.
